

2023 WEC 8 Hours of Bahrain: Race report

The final round of the FIA World Endurance Championship took place in the Gulf. The 2023 WEC 8 Hours of Bahrain was hosted at a track that most fans will recognise from Formula One races that take place there. The event, which started in the afternoon, would see racers deal with sunset before the race was concluded under lights.

Toyota Gazoo Racing dominated the final race of the 2023 campaign. The Japanese outfit locked out the front row of the grid during qualifying. It was the No.8 GR010 Hypercar crew of Sebastien Buemi, Brendon Hartley and Ryo Hirakawa who led the race in Bahrain from start to finish.
