

ActiveOps partners with IQbusiness

ActiveOps, a provider of digital operations management solutions, has announced a formal partnership with IQbusiness, a South African management consulting firm.

The partnership combines a portfolio of multi-disciplinary consulting and digital transformation services from IQbusiness with Workware software and the Active Operational Management (AOM) method from ActiveOps to optimise back office operations bringing together workforces with automation. Both ActiveOps and IQbusiness have ambitious growth plans for South Africa and Africa, and this latest partnership will be key in providing service organisations across the continent with digital operations management solutions alongside innovative consulting services.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>