

New online content producer at Women on Wheels

Women on Wheels (WOW), an Associated Media publication, today announced the appointment of Juliet McGuire as the new online content producer.

A Cape Town native, McGuire studied film and television at City Varsity, before completing her honours degree in journalism at the University of Stellenbosch. She began her career at CAR magazine and quickly established herself as one of the leading female voices in motoring journalism, contributing to DSTV's Ignition TV and the Techreport on eNCA.

McGuire joins Charleen Clarke, who will remain the editor of WOW's print edition, which is published with the July issues of Cosmopolitan, Marie Claire, O, The Oprah Magazine - and lifestyle title House and Leisure.
