

African Footprint now at Emperors Palace

South Africa's longest-running show, African Footprint, is currently showing at the Theatre of Marcellus, Emperors Palace, exclusively until 20 June 2010. The show tells the vibrant and diverse story of South Africa through a dazzling display of traditional African, kwela, tap, contemporary ballet, gumboot, and hip-hop pantsula.

The non-stop, 90-minute musical story of Africa's emergence onto the world stage is linked by the poetry of Sophiatown legend Don Mattera. Executive producer Richard Loring estimates the long-running hit has put more than approximately 200 South African performers into the international spotlight on the its way to travel the world.

The show starts at 8.30pm. Ticket prices are from R185 per person. Bookings can be made through the Emperors Palace Box Office on 011 928 1297 or through Computicket on 083 915 8000 or www.computicket.com
