

Dead Meadow, Nonn and more added to Endless Daze lineup

Four international acts have been added to the Endless Daze Festival 2018 lineup. American rock band Dead Meadow, Swedish alternative band Nonn, Irish rocker Candice Gordon, and Irish folk musician A.S. Fanning will all be taking to the stage at the Silwerstroom Resort in the West Coast of Cape Town between 2-4 November 2018.

The rest of the lineup is made up of several local musicians, including Kidofdoom, Black Math, Sakawa Boys, Diamond Thug, Black Lung, and Clayton Human.

Launched in 2016 as a boutique and small-scale outdoor festival, set between a nature reserve and the sea, Endless Daze has fast become one of South Africa's top alternative live music events and has played host to superb local and international entertainment.

The festival is limited to 2,000 people and has plenty of amenities, so you won't have to expect any of the regular inconveniences attached to that 'festival experience'. A well-balanced food area that caters for all your hungry desires, bars stocked with delicious beverages (both alcoholic and non-alcoholic), considered activations, beautiful open spaces, shaded chill areas, a pristine beach and friendly faces. This year there will also be a further push to keep the festival green with various initiatives, both during and outside of the festival.
