

F1 review: Monaco 2021 and some ramblings

The Monaco F1 Grand Prix is generally the most glamorous round of the F1 calendar, with the richest and most famous glimpsed at the principality. F1 teams also tend to rise to the occasion, with a number of teams having produced special liveries for this race in the past.

McLaren took the liberty of adorning their machines in the legendary Gulf colours – a scheme that looks so good this fan feels it should be kept for the remainder of the season. Sadly, the fifth round of the 2021 F1 World Championship was hardly a scintillating one, with the most exciting occurrences happening before the race even began.

Continue reading the full review on Double Apex.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>