

Melrose Arch adds rooftop office space

Melrose Arch in Johannesburg has added rooftop office space to its offering.

Melrose Arch roof office space development

Amdec has extended five office buildings around the Melrose Arch Piazza by adding a new top floor to each one.

The 4,800m² of new office space is designed in industrial steel and glass. All five rooftop office suites will be complete before the end of the year, offering space from 100m² to 1,500m².

Renee Feeney, head of leasing at Melrose Arch explains that developing the exclusive new rooftop office spaces was undertaken in response to demand.

New additions

In addition, Feeney points out that the new Melrose Arch rooftop offices add to the workspaces available at the precinct. Melrose Arch includes a selection of large corporate headquarters as well as multi-tenant office environments.

Several companies are housed at Melrose Arch including DuPont, Bidvest Group, Lonmin, MasterCard, Royal Bafokeng Holdings, Stanlib, Worley Parsons, Sasfin, and Bankmed.

Feeney confirms the new rooftop suites are the final phase of the prominent Melrose Arch Piazza.
