

#BeautifulNews: A cappuccino and a dash of catnip - inside SA's first cat café

Cape Town may be known for its coffee culture, but Valerie Steinmann's café offers more than a freshly-brewed espresso. Instead, servings of plain milk or water are the order of the day, with a side serving of catnip. That's because the patrons here are mostly feline. Inspired by her travels to Asia where cat cafés are a trend, Steinmann returned to open South Africa's first. But rather than exclusively indulging the novelty of being surrounded by kittens while enjoying a meal, she decided to expand on the idea for a greater purpose.
