

Leaders on the Move event offers insights from Gautrain, Standard Bank, NetFlorist

Jack van der Merwe (CEO, Gautrain Management Agency), Ben Kruger (joint CEO, Standard Bank) and Ryan Bacher (MD, NetFlorist) will invite Leaders on the Move into their offices and impart their individual leadership experiences in the September leg of the 2016 Sunday Times Top 100 Companies Leaders on the Move series.

Sibusiso Molimi, motivational speaker, author and entrepreneur will be the guest speaker over lunch and media personality, Jeremy Maggs, will facilitate the meetings on Friday 16 September.

Barbara Jensen, Gautrain Management Agency, senior executive manager, communication and marketing said, "Gautrain is for people on the move and a product of visionary leadership. The Leaders on the Move initiative provides an opportunity to tell the Gautrain story and most importantly to demonstrate what visionary leadership can achieve."

Leaders on the Move creates an opportunity for a group of 'tomorrow's business leaders' to meet carefully selected directors in business, over the course of one day. With an hour spent at the respective offices of each CEO, delegates enjoy lunch and networking opportunities.

The Gautrain Management Agency is the lead partner for the September event that will see tour guests being transported via Gautrain and luxury coach around Johannesburg. Delegates are diverse - from business owners and line-managers, through to students.

Times Media conceptualised the Sunday Times Top 100 Companies series of events, which includes the annual Leaders on the Move tours. Times Media CEO, Andrew Bonamour, who hosted a Leaders on the Move tour delegation in 2015, believes it creates an opportunity for aspirants to meet inspirational leaders and take away positive insights that will last a lifetime.

"In an economy such as ours, where strong, sound leadership needs to be nurtured, it is essential to create a platform where leadership experiences can be shared - along with advice and encouragement from South Africa's top business minds. We hope that Leaders on the Move inspires a new generation of business people to greatness through these engagements."
