As the pandemic continues to devastate the entertainment industry, we at Howard Audio are grateful that we can continue to provide a creative space to record music for musicians and content for commercials. Our spacious studios feature separate recording booths, safely set up to record in these socially distanced times.

We're delighted to announce that Howard Audio has expanded our space and constructed a brand new eatery to offer our clients delicious fresh food and coffee. Our clients can chill or meet in our spacious lounge area, which can be repurposed as a micro-event space, where we can record performances in front of a socially-distanced audience. Live events can also be streamed to create content for artists.

We welcome Tilt Creative into the space - who have partnered with us in the brand-new “Zoo Eatery”.

Right now, we’re entering the third week of tracking two albums for Jonathan Roxmouth, in between his hectic schedule, performing the lead role in Phantom of The Opera in Asia. Phantasm is a full symphony orchestra showcasing the very best music from the show. Swingle Bells is a full big band Christmas extravaganza in partnership with the Johannesburg Big Band, of which Adam Howard is the musical director.

We never anticipated our spacious studios with multiple rooms of separation would be perfect and safe to record in these times, but are thrilled we can keep the sessions going in some way for some of South Africa's best musicians. We have also been working on various TV commercials producing original music and final mix.
