Romance is proud to announce that Justice Mukheli has joined us as a commercials director, and we couldn't be more excited.

Mukheli is a creative polymath. Having established himself as a respected photographer and advertising art director, he has quickly grown into a film director to watch.

Mukheli approaches projects and subject matter with dignity, sensitivity and heart, creating stories with honest emotion. He engages his viewers on a personal level - a process that takes into account the richness and beauty of his heritage and background. Whether it's live action or stills, his work has a soulful elegance that speaks powerfully through evocative visuals.

Mukheli's body of work aligns perfectly with what Romance is passionate about, and his unique spirit is something we value in all of our directors. He also brings a new perspective and exciting energy that we can't wait to have in our space.

Mukheli will continue his relationship with Bomb's feature division for his long-form work, led by the formidable Desi Markgraaff, while Romance develops his career in local and international commercials. Both companies are committed to supporting each other in his creative development as a filmmaker and in growing his career as a multifaceted director.

Romance is looking forward to offering Justice the creative support and potential for collaboration with experienced directors Greg Gray and Terence Neale, while introducing him to a broader international market.

Welcome to the family Justice.
