

Sizwe Dlamini to head Independent Media's special investigations unit

Independent Media has appointed senior journalist Sizwe Dlamini to head its special investigations unit editor, effective immediately. The unit focuses on reporting on matters that are as yet untold, and that are of public importance related to business operations and political dealings.

Dlamini has over two decades experience in the media industry, having started as a proof-reader in 1998 before joining Independent Media in 2016, as a copy and layout sub-editor and Business Report's live editor. He has also worked as Business Report's chief reporter and current affairs producer at SABC's SAfm radio.
