

Project Isizwe makes changes to its board

Project Isizwe has expanded its board of directors to include a former director-general of National Treasury, a former chairman of ICASA and a former CEO of the SABS. The non-profit organisation, which is spearheading the delivery of Free WiFi for low income communities in South Africa, has expanded its board of directors to six, with Estian Calitz, Nape Maepe and Martin Kuscus joining from November 2015.
