

Sponsorships offered for SA manufacturing professionals to relocate to Ireland

Issued by NexVentur

5 Apr 2023

With a skills shortage in many industries, Irish companies are casting their net wider for skilled employees. Recruitment and relocation specialists, NexVentur is looking to South African skilled professionals to fill several positions for its manufacturing client, MCI.

NexVentur is hiring for Industrial Automation Maintenance Technicians and a Manufacturing Engineer, with more specialist jobs to follow.

Nestled in the quaint town of Manorhamilton, in picturesque county Leitrim in Ireland, the MCI plant employs around 320 people. Part of the international Flex Group, the company is a highly-specialised producer of actuators and power folds and globally produces upwards of 90 million units a year. Its products range from folding wing mirrors to optical smoke detectors and the charge-port doors of electric vehicles. Fun fact: every BMW 5 Series has four products manufactured by MCI in Ireland.
