Berita, Thiwe Mbola, Amanda Black, Miss Pru and Azola are all part of the lineup for the event.

Representing an all-female space for opportunity, the leading ladies of Wanawake Xperience have positioned the show as a platform for upcoming female artists and creatives.

A music and lifestyle event that also communicates itself as a self-funding space to inspire and unite women from all over the industry, while creating their own table, is the essence of Wanawake Xperience.

Berita said, "What excites me about this event is the collaborative effort between us five ladies. We are learning and growing from each other. We are very excited to perform together, grow this movement of women supporting each other and working together in the music industry."

Mbola said, "We definitely believe this platform will encourage more collaborations amongst female artists and I am most excited about the new talent we will be unearthing on the Wanawake Xperience stage."

While individually doing great things with their individual projects, Berita, Thiwe, Amanda Black, Miss Pru and Azola are flying the female building notion high through this star-studded event.
