This follows the Zondo Commission's completion of its four-year inquiry, handing over the final report and recommendations to the president on Wednesday night.

Among the findings of the report are that President Cyril Ramaphosa lied when questioned on the work of the review panel on the State Security Agency.

It was also uncovered that Jacob Zuma abused power and that Ramaphosa often let him do so.

Public demand for parts V and VI of the report is currently so high that the Presidency website is being affected by high volumes of visitors to the site.

“ Tonight we receive and publicly release the final part of the report of the Judicial Commission of Inquiry into Allegations of State Capture, Corruption and Fraud in the Public Sector: #StateCaptureReport pic.twitter.com/LV3nsxjvHt
