“It’s been a while since we’ve been able to travel and so we are looking forward to getting face-to-face with beginner and big leagues property investors in Durban, as well as anyone who is interested to find out more. We will also be reconnecting with our existing Sapin members in Durban and we will listen to pitches and encourage entries for The Investor of the Year Awards that are coming up in November this year,” says Walker.

Talks and presentations will include insights into advanced tools and tactics for property portfolio optimisation, specifically:

- Progressive investment strategies for expansion,
- Overview of all the lending options available to property investors,
- Property investment exit strategies to mitigate risk,
- Advanced deal analysis methods to avoid costly mistakes,
- Critical drivers of property investment portfolio performance, and
- Tax efficiency that can help you protect your assets.

“The reality is that as difficult as Covid-19 has been, it has also brought opportunities, particularly in opening up the doors for property investing,” explains Walker.

“Property remains an important part of a long-term investment strategy and there is currently much opportunity in the property market with low interest rates, ample property stock on offer and good deals for buyers. With a long-term view and strategy, a team of experts and industry specialists and the right network, we continue to see the opportunities for individuals to turn their situations around, no matter what their economic status or background,” says Walker.
